Excerpt: . granted, I relinquished the experiment, because after my connexion with Mr. Cooke it was necessary to divert the funds I had destined for this purpose to other uses. What I have above stated is sufficient to show that I had paid great attention to the subject of telegraphic communication by means of electricity, and had made important practical advances, long before I had any acquaintance with, or had ever heard of Mr. Cooke. My experiments had also been announced in print in the Magazine of Popular Science for March 1837. 520. The first of Professor Wheatstone s practical advances was, as you will observe, his volunteering to superintend the establishment of an Electric Telegraph on the London and Birmingham RailWay To Superintend The Establishment Of An Electric Telegraph On The London And BirMingham Railway. Let me first beg of you, Gentlemen, to compare...
